MAKING A LIFE vs MAKING A LIVING

Knowledge from schools and universities may help us make a living but doesn't empower us to take charge of our life and future. Life can be free from stress, depression and boredom.

The intellect makes you dynamic, stay cool under pressure and command success.

NEXTGEN SUMMIT

A three-day program covering talks on smarter living, Q&A sessions, group discussions and literature sessions. An opportunity to learn how to make better choices, manage relationships and discover your path in life.

The Vedanta Academy was founded by Swami A. Parthasarathy in 1988. The Academy runs a continual three-year residential course in self-development. Students from all over the globe with different cultural and academic backgrounds including graduates from world's leading universities are enrolled in the course.

The NextGen Summit is a unique event designed to provide you with a platform to interact with the renowned faculty of the Vedanta Academy. Your exposure to techniques of living will help you rise above your doubts and answer life's questions.

Swami A. Parthasarathy is known as the 'Go-getters guru'. He has been imparting Vedanta and its practical application to life around the world for over sixty years. He has addressed Young Presidents' Organisation, Harvard, Oxford, NASA, World Bank, Google et al.

Sunandaji, daughter-disciple of Swamiji has been studying and researching Vedanta for four decades. She has addressed diverse audiences across five continents including Young Presidents' Organisation, Harvard Business School, Ernst & Young.
